JOHN S. HAMEL, P. M.
SUMMERS HARDY, Deputy.

THIS Territory needs a press association with headquarters at Ardmore.

Another attempt with dynamite has recently been made to blow up parliament. If they keep laboring in this direction they may finally succeed.

We desire to return thanks unbounded to two or three friends who remembered us with a smile when the express package came in. Yours to command.

It is thought but few if any appointments by the president will be made before the convening of the regular session of Congress in December.

ELECTIONS were held today in a number of states. Press dispatches do not indicate a Democratic victory outside of New York and Virginia. The situation is very much mixed in the West. McKinley will probably be elected governor of Ohio.

CONGRESS made no appropriation with which to carry out the provisions of the Geary act deporting Chinese from the bounds of the United States. This act, like Geary, should be declared unconstitutional and a fraud.

HON. W. B. HUSTON of Wichita Falls, Texas, who was sent to Washington to urge the opening of the Sill country, states that it is the opinion of congressmen that the country may be opened next spring, but if not then at least next fall.

THE Osage Indians, who refused to treat with the government commissioners for the sale of their land to the government, are circulating an agreement to take their allotments if the government will allow them to sell the surplus land to settlers in their own way.

THE settlers of the Cheyenne and Arapahoe country are out in call for a convention asking congress to repeal that portion of the act opening that country providing for the payment of $1.50 cents an acre for their lands. They want free lands, the same as Oklahoma proper settlers had and settlers on government lands.

Have you seen Russell's line of overcoats they are daisies and very cheap.

SMART ALEX!

They Take the Law in Their Own Hands

Self Constituted Moral Guardians of Ardmore

RAISE AN UNNECESSARY DISTURBANCE.

A din equal to the coming in of the new year in Galveston or a Kansas cyclone was heard upon the streets last night. Toot-horns tooted and yells rivaling those of Chicago hoodlums were heard. These disgraceful proceedings were the result of some smart Alex who had took it upon themselves to enforce the laws. If the party, who this over righteous mob sought to punish, was a street fakir of the worst kind it would not have been their place to enforce the laws of the U. S. Government, and City of Ardmore. As an American citizen he had a perfect right in the pursuit of business and happiness undisturbed by any one except the officers of the law. His greatest crime seemed to be selling electric belts, something that any man of medical information knows to be no fake. On the contrary they are of great benefit to the afflicted in many instances. The ugly feature of this performance was that the righteous mob also threw eggs. The man's wife and two little children were with him. He was dead game and went on with his work. A true man will never insult or wound the feelings of even a fallen woman. One of the miscreants, if the affair has been reported to us correctly, was arrested. We hope the authorities will punish him severely, and that other parties to this shameful procedure will be arrested and punished. They certainly had a great deal of presumption to raise this rabble during the sitting of court. We also understand that the electric belt man had consulted with the leading citizens and Board of Trade, and paid a license and secured permission to sell his goods on the streets, as they did not regard it as a fake, or a gambling scheme, or anything of that order. Even if it had been, that would not justify a rabble to take the law in their own hands and make night hideous in a city whose honor and dignity will and shall be maintained so far as the ARDMOREITE is concerned. If the press of this city fails to do its duty in such cases as this and the officials are not properly sustained, greater and stronger street rabbles or mobs will occur, and from small beginnings greater results will grow. Hoosiers, and wild men with big spurs, will always be found ready to raise Cain and join in and paint the town red you know. From what we can understand this element predominated last night.

This office has secured the letter list publication for Ardmore and it will hereafter appear in these columns. The bar of Ardmore have almost unanimously promised this office all legal advertising. Moral—it will pay you to subscribe for and read your daily paper.

THE advocates of silver claim that the question is by no means settled but that its agitation will appear in every important measure which comes before either branch of Congress. They say the defeat with which they have met only serves to bring the real issue before the people.

Now is the time for the merchants and other business men to advertise. By doing so they will serve a double purpose—increase their business and at the same time assist us in our efforts to give them a first class daily paper. The ARDMOREITE in its infancy and requires support and we believe it is worthy. Come to the front gentlemen.

Attention is respectfully called to the "ad" of London & Moore. This firm is too well known and too deeply imbedded in Ardmore's history to require any extensive commendation at our hands. They are progressive in the highest sense of the word and as a consequence have built up an extensive business.

Last evening 36 of Ardmore's little folks assembled at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. London, the occasion being in celebration of the eighth birth day of Master Charley London the bright little Dallas News agent. The young gentleman was literally stormed with presents and tokens of remembrance. Refreshments were served and a most enjoyable time was had.

The government inspector of U. S. courts passed through on the morning train in route to Guthrie. He will probably return here within the next few weeks.

C. B. Ladd, proprietor of the Central hotel desires the Ardmoreite to state that he has no intention of giving up the management of that hostelry until his years time is up. He has built up a good reputation for the house and is making good money from a first class trade.

Hon. Clifford L. Jackson prosecuting attorney for the Indian Territory, came in on the 10.30 train. From him it is learned that the prisoners confined in the Muskogee jail attempted to liberate themselves last night by burning the jail. The bastille was reduced to ruins but none of its inmates escaped.

Last Friday a man appeared at the counter of the Central hotel and registered as J. M. Wilson, of Nebraska. He was well appearing and was not slow to display a large roll of money which he tendered landlord Ladd for safe keeping. Mr. Ladd refused to accept same as he had no safe in which to place it. The next movement of the man was to volunteer the information that he had bought out Jerry Washington at Marietta, and that he owned an extensive cattle ranch in the far north-west—in fact that he was a regular croesus of modern proportions. He offered to pay Mr. Ladd a princely salary to go with him giving him choice between taking charge of the Washington place or any one of his numerous western possessions. Mr. Ladd was favorably impressed and was seriously considering his propositions when all at once his anticipations were suddenly and cruelly blasted. Jerry Washington appeared in Ardmore and Mr. Ladd in order to more thoroughly satisfy himself asked him relative to the transaction. Mr. Washington was surprised to learn that such a rumor could have gained credence as he had never been even approached on the subject of selling.

Ladd hurried to see his man Wilson and demanded an explanation, but no explanation could be given. Wilson became very much excited and excused himself for a few moments, since which time he has not been seen around the central. He did not even take time to pay his bill. Mr. Ladd is puzzled to understand the motive prompting such action on the part of the man as he had a large amount of money on his person. It was certainly mysterious to say the least.

If you want a square meal go to the Caddo Restaurant and Short order house on north Caddo street across the street from Post office. Fish, oysters, sausage, soups of all kind and chillee call and see me. I will treat you right. H. M. Archer.

BY TELEGRAPH.

FROM OVER THE WORLD.

A General Summary of News Condensed and Clipped From Our Daily Exchanges.

A special from Washington in regard to prospective new states as yet.

Bills have now been reported from the house committee on territories providing for the admission of three new states, Arizona, New Mexico and Utah. There is now pending before the committee a bill introduced by Delegate Flynn for the admission of Oklahoma. It is expected that there will be something of a contest over this proposition. There are two factions in the Indian Territory which are interested in admission. One wants the Indian Territory admitted as a portion of the state of Oklahoma. Another wants the section now known as the Indian Territory to remain in its present condition. Delegate Flynn says this is of no particular moment to him. If the people of the Indian Territory do not want to come into the union with Oklahoma, he then wants Oklahoma admitted as a separate state. Before leaving for home he said he would press his bill as soon as congress reassembled. He thinks it would be a great injustice to the people of Oklahoma to deny them admission when the Territory has the requisite population and resources to entitle it to statehood.
